FROM THE EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR'S DESK

We at NEN believe that issues of good governance, food security and violence against women need to be addressed in tandem to ensure a just standard of living for the women of the North East.

The year 2016-17 saw several positive steps for inspiring rural women. NEN is confident that a democratic way of functioning is the most empowering for them. The voices of indigenous women leaders, farmers, seed keepers, weavers, vendors and rural mobilizers are gradually being recognized by the state. We aim to propel this favourable state of affairs into value added progressive legislative policies so that the status of women is enhanced and spaces of excelling in their work are encouraged.

The year also witnessed discussions with our Governing Board on branching out to ensure enhanced economic empowerment for women weaves and farmers. With their advice we have decided to initiate a package on social enterprise that will focus on ensuring sustainable livelihoods. Our livelihood programmes will be based on local natural resources, socially inclusive processes and culturally relevant interventions as well as incorporate fair trade principles. Learning will be imparted through diverse audio-visual technology and involve new technical skills. The project will encompass NEN's vision and mission. Best efforts, on part of the team has resulted in a great year. I am certain the same team spirit will lead us to smoother years ahead.

ABOUT NORTH EAST NETWORK

North East Network (NEN), founded in 1995, is a women's rights organisation, committed to gender justice, equality and respect for human rights. Our mission is to take forward women's human rights through collective action by:

- Creating a culture of peace, both inside and outside the homes, through women's active and informed involvement.
- Strengthening women's collectives, collective action and their leadership.
- Increasing women's representation in political, public and community processes.
- Addressing discrimination and violence against women in both public and domestic spheres, and ensuring safer spaces.
- Protecting the environment and biodiversity through innovative natural resource management and livelihood initiatives.

PROGRAMME STRATEGY

Our strategy takes a thematic approach that aims to strengthen and promote women's rights work through collective action. The three themes are:

1. Reducing Gender-based Discrimination and Violence against Women (VAW): Multi pronged strategy with government and civil society to address and redress gender based discrimination and VAW through feminist trainings, policy advocacy, campaigns and action.

2. Governance and State Accountability: Access to entitlements and justice systems for different categories of women in conflict and post-conflict situations; promotion of women's participation in decision-making processes (formal and informal); and tracking state budgets to advocate for meaningful resource allocations and proactive gender responsive budgeting.

3. Natural Resource Management and Sustainability: Conserving North East India's biodiversity zones and community owned natural resources; strengthening traditional, indigenous ecological food and farming systems to ensure food sovereignty. NEN aspires to secure land and resource rights for women farmers. It helps informing collectives of women farmers and encouraging a change in perspective, through collective action, from needs to rights as well as ensuring the long-term framing of gender-just policies in this field.

COLLECTIVE COMMUNITY INITIATIVES

Community activism by NEN has a broad base across the three states. NEN strongly believes in collective action for achieving gender justice, equality and social transformation.

ASSAM

Through a substantive process beginning in 2013, grassroots women and youth leaders in Assam have been mentored by the NEN core team to engage with grassroots' governance structures to negotiate on rights and entitlements for equality and social justice. Our community leaders are now change-makers who work in 8 districts.

During the year, they have been able to assist in securing rights under national social assistance programmes, including 7 Old Age and 7 Widow Pension Schemes, and 2 Below Poverty Line (BPL) Cards. They have also influenced local governance bodies of the Government of Assam to install electricity power poles and construct motorable, accessible roads in their villages; 88 households have been provided with low cost sanitation facilities. In this year, our 8 certified barefoot counselors in 4 districts have handled 66 cases of violence on women, resolving 23 cases; for these cases they hold the state accountable to provide security to women in homes and public spaces.

We now work in

Districts	8
Blocks	1
Gram Panchayat	1
Village Council and Development Committee	4
Villages	49
Women's Group Formed	67
Women empowered via community meetings	4450
Men engaged via community meetings	1140

Two Success Stories

Usha Rani Devi of Darrang District was successful in rescuing a survivor of human trafficking with the help of district police. A young educated girl from Bhakatpara, went on a tour in July 2016 to Rajasthan with her mother and mother's friend, who was actually an agent of human trafficking. The friend persuaded, in fact, threatened the duo to get the daughter married to local man. Frightened, they gave in and the mother came back home, escorted by the friend who later fled from the scene. Soon afterwards, the daughter reported of physical assaults and mental torture in her marital home. The mother approached Usha who negotiated with the Office of the District Superintendent of Police. A police team was dispatched to Rajasthan who was rescued within two weeks of Usha's intervention. The rescued woman is now a village teacher.

Dipali Bora of Udalguri District was successful in resisting corruption in the local governance system in Kalaigaon block in 2016. Free blankets meant for less privileged sections of the society were sold @Rs. 100 - 150 per piece by officials of the Block Development Office. Dipali raised her voice against this anomaly, challenged the officials and accused them of taking bribe. Her intervention drastically changed the behaviour of the Block Officials. They now charge 20/- per blanket towards transportation charge to interior villages which is also not acceptable but at least Dipali succeeded in checking corruption to an extent.

MEGHALAYA

'In order for the world to change, people must change. Our work with the community is to create awareness about gender and to learn healthier ways to relate to each other.'

This year NEN Meghalaya identified and capacitated 2 groups of women leaders from East Khasi Hills and West Khasi Hills districts with the objective to strengthen women's collectives so that their capacities are enhanced to participate in local governance (formal/informal), and engaging with state agencies for stronger articulation of economic social, cultural and political (ESCP) rights.

Acknowledging the importance of engaging with influential institutions like the Dorbar Shnongs (local self-governance units) and the Church for initiating change in the community, NEN organised various awareness programmes at educational institutions and villages. The programmes this year focused on crimes against women, child sexual abuse, life skills building etc. NEN Meghalaya partnered with the Center for Social Research, New Delhi in conducting cyber crime awareness programmes in 6 educational institutions in Shillong. It also networked with the Meghalaya Administrative Training Institute in carrying out awareness programmes on gender and VAW in West Khasi Hills and East Jaintia Hills districts.

NAGALAND

NEN Nagaland mobilised 2500 women workers in the informal sector, in both the rural and urban areas of Kohima, Phek and Dimapur districts, to access their rights and entitlements. These women workers comprising home-based workers, farmers and vendors have become members of the Self Employed Women's Association (SEWA). Various programmes related to skill development, financial inclusion, social security, campaigns on organic food and farming, advocacy for vending spaces etc. were undertaken by the leaders of SEWA in association with NEN.

As a member and anchor of the NE region in Mahila Adhikar Kisan Manch (MAKAAM) – a forum for Women Farmers' Rights at the national level, NEN has mobilised several organisations in 4 states (Assam, Meghalaya, Manipur and Nagaland) in the region to join MAKAAM and highlight region-specific issues of women farmers.

COMBINING ACTIVISM WITH ADVOCACY

ASSAM

Memorandums were used as change tools and submitted to different government departments on International Women's Day in Kamrup, Darrang and Golaghat districts.

NEN also engaged with different agencies at the state and national levels this year. We submitted a Memorandum to the Chief Minister of Assam on unsafe public space for women, appointment of fulltime Protection Officers as per the Domestic Violence Act, to immediately pass The Assam Witch-hunting Bill 2015, and notify a Nodal Agency to implement the Sexual Harassment of Women at Work Place Act of 2013.

The same issues were highlighted at an advocacy meeting on the Draft National Policy for Women – 2016 to the Ministry of Women and Child Development.

Other initiatives include: training of 30 empanelled lawyers of the Assam State Legal Services Authority by Vrinda Grover (Supreme Court lawyer and activist) on using laws to protect and promote women's human rights; orientation on crimes against women for 40 police officers of the Police Commissionerate, Guwahati (Crime), Assam Police.

Writ Petition by NEN on Acid Attack

As part of its efforts to check gender-based violence on women, NEN filed a writ petition (W.P.(C) No.859/2017) in the Gauhati High Court along with a survivor of an acid attack. Through this petition the State has been appealed to follow the SC guidelines for acid attacks; ensure that private hospitals follow SC orders to provide free treatment to acid attack survivors as well as that functional women's helplines respond to women's emergency situations.

MEGHALAYA

NEN's Consistent engagement with state agencies has led to the following:

- Implementation of the Guidelines and Protocols for Medico-legal Care for Survivors/Victims of Sexual Violence: Capacity building training for doctors from all districts on the guidelines and their effective use was conducted. In October 2016 the Government of Meghalaya passed an official notification for the implementation of the guidelines in all hospitals (private and public). NEN continues to ensure that the hospital staffs are trained on the effective use of the guidelines.
- One Stop Centre for Women – Iohlynti: A Memorandum of Understanding was signed between NEN, the Social Welfare Department and the Health and Family Welfare Department of the Government of Meghalaya for the functioning and strengthening of Iohlynti, the one stop centre for women.

- 5 Government Officials (Secretary of Health Department, 2 Joint Directors of Directorate of Health Services, Secretary of Social Welfare, Superintendent of Police- Meghalaya Police) and 1 NEN representative visited Dilaasa (1st hospital based crisis centre in India) in Mumbai. This visit has paved way for a convergence between different stakeholders in the state to further strengthen state's response to violence against women.
- Establishment of Internal Committees in 13 government institutions and 1 IT Company as mandated by the Sexual Harassment of Women at the Workplace (Prevention, Prohibition and Redressal) (SHWWP) Act, 2013.

NAGALAND

To celebrate the courage, resilience and contribution of rural women in the conservation of biodiversity NEN organized a Biodiversity Festival at Chizami, on the occasion of International Women's Day. The event brought together more than 200 stakeholders, including women farmers, community leaders, CBOs, representatives from government agencies and the media. This festival highlighted the need to safeguard the health of communities and the environment.

NEN supported women organizations that have advocated for the implementation of affirmative policy legislations such as the 33% reservation for women in the Municipal and Town Councils through sensitization and facilitating discussions on relevant issues.

UNIVERSAL PERIODIC REVIEW (UPR):

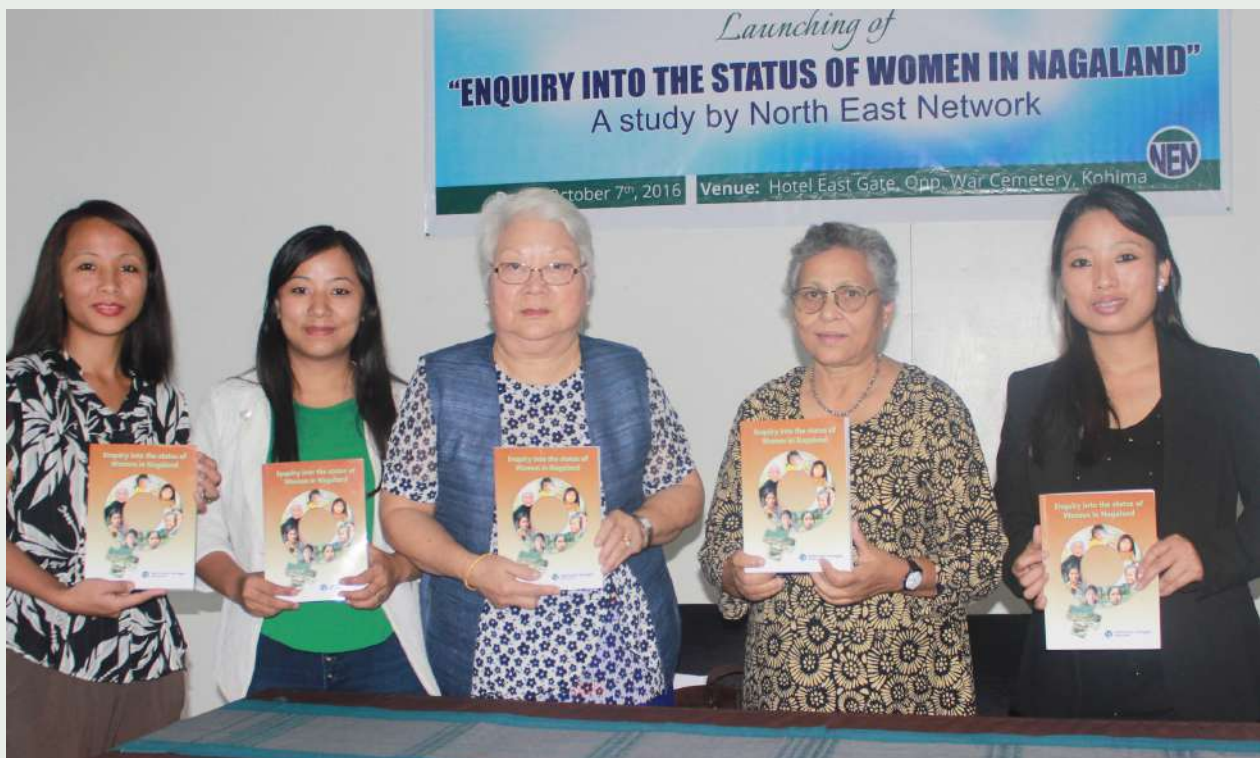

The UPR is a process of the Human Rights Council (UNHCR) which involves a review of the human rights record of 193 UN Member States once every four years. India's first UPR took place in 2008, and the second in 2012. Prior to the 3rd one which is scheduled for 2017, NEN made contributions on gender equality in the context of North East India to the Joint Stakeholders' Report by civil society organisations and activists.

RESEARCH

This year, NEN published a joint discussion paper with Common Wealth Human Rights Initiatives (New Delhi) called 'Towards Equality: Priority Issues of Concern for Women in Policing in Assam'. The paper examines issues linked to women's representation in the police, their working conditions and the challenges they face, and outlines other such priority concerns for women in Assam Police.

NEN is a part of an all India study initiated by AMAN: Global Voices for Peace in the Home, an international network to end domestic violence (DV). The study seeks to understand the public health sector's response to DV. Private and public hospitals have been interviewed and the report is underway.

A research report titled 'Inquiry into the Status of Women in Nagaland' was published and launched in October 2016. Covering 6 communities in 3 districts of Nagaland, the report throws light on the contextual realities of discrimination experienced by diverse categories of Naga women in various spheres of life.

Women farmers from 6 villages of Phek district in Nagaland who have been trained in filmmaking and videography through a participatory approach have been researching and documenting several issues such as climate change, women's lives and livelihoods, biodiversity and natural resource management. These films have been used as awareness and advocacy tools in their communities as well as other platforms.

CAPACITY BUILDING

Courses and trainings conducted by NEN as well as those attended by NEN team members over the year include:

- Orientation on Project Outcome-Impact Tools facilitated by Anke Schuermann
- Capacity Building Workshop on Budget Analysis, facilitated by the country's leading budget group, CBGA, New Delhi
- Feminist Aspects: Theories and Practices at Osmania University, Hyderabad, conducted by Urban Action School
- South Asia Feminist Capacity Building course on 'Gender, Sustainable Livelihoods, Human Rights and Peace', organized and facilitated by SANGAT at Kathmandu, Nepal
- Training on Online Marketing, organized by Zynorique and facilitated by Amazon-Saheli
- Training of Community Justice Workers by MARG and CAFI, New Delhi
- Workshop on Rural Women's Right to Livelihood and Social Protection by ANANDI, Gujarat
- Capacity building trainings for police officials, doctors, counselors, nurses, NGOs and women leaders by NEN Meghalaya, with the support of CEHAT, Mumbai, Swayam, Kolkata, Centre for Social Research, New Delhi, Faith Foundation and the NEN core team
- Phase-wise capacity building programmes for women leaders of 4 tribal women organizations, 1 women workers' organization and village-based women's societies in 10 villages, in Kiphire and Kohima, Nagaland

Tekhuvelu Ringa, Farmer & Filmmaker

'I am a 39-year-old farmer from Dzulhami village, Phek district, Nagaland. I joined the video-documentation training with zero knowledge about camera and filmmaking. I was very nervous initially and our work was not recognized or acknowledged by the community so we got no cooperation and support from them. However, things began to change after we screened the films we made in the community. Now, I am requested to document important community events and community people even suggest issues to be documented in future. I want to continue documenting stories of my community and exchange learning with people of other communities.'

GREEN HUB : Youth & Community Fellowship and Video for Change at Tezpur, Assam

The Fellowship Programme of learning video documentation is for 20 young people, every year, with 2.5 months of intense training in Tezpur, followed by 10 months of internship with a CBO in the region. The year 2016-17 was a milestone year with the first batch graduating in May 2016, and the second batch joining at the same time. 16 organisations offered internships to the Fellows as project partners. 40 short films were made by the fellows. This was also combined with community screening of some in KarbiAnglong in Assam and Pakke and Zemithang in Arunachal Pradesh.

NEN's objective of this Fellowship is to engage the youth in social change through the use of the visual medium, to develop professional video and editing skills and to showcase the natural wealth of the north east region. Over the last 2 years the fellows have covered diverse subjects like Community Conservation Areas, Agro-biodiversity, wildlife conservation and traditional knowledge among others. (Green Hub Project has entered its third year with the new batch joining on the 3rd of May 2017.)

In February 2017 Dr. George Schaller, considered one of the founding fathers of wildlife conservation, spent 10 days with the Green Hub team.

LIVELIHOOD INITIATIVES

NEN is going strength to strength in consolidating viable food and farming practices so as to secure sustainable livelihoods for small and marginal farmers in addition to conserving the ecological vibrancy of the North East region. In Nagaland, NEN reached out to 4 districts – Phek, Kohima, Kiphire and Tuensang –while extending this work to Meghalaya, Manipur, Assam and West Bengal.

CHIZAMI WEAVES, NAGALAND

Since its initiation with 7 weavers in 2008, Chizami Weaves has enabled 385 weavers (from 11 villages and 4 towns in Phek district) to secure an additional source of livelihood. Besides the existing product inventory, a focus is also kept on the development of natural fibres such as stinging nettle plant and indigenous cotton, which is still at a nascent stage. During the year, Chizami Weaves expanded its network with diverse stakeholders including entrepreneurs, designers, design institutes, craft stores, financial institutions, craft promotional bodies and government departments.

Khwepele-u Naro, Master Weaver

'I have been part of the project from the beginning in 2008. Since then I have learnt to make many new products and I also actively engage in design development. Designing weave patterns makes me happy as I enjoy doing it. Chizami Weaves recognizes my skills and I have been a resource person to both young and older women, training them to hone their weaving skills. Chizami Weaves has enhanced my confidence level, both at home and in the community.'

SANEKI WEAVES, ASSAM

NEN Assam is happy to announce this livelihood initiative in Sonitpur district which seeks to empower disadvantaged women and ensure a stable livelihood for them. Through this we aim to strengthen women's leadership and ensure the promotion and protection of equal opportunities and rights for the weavers. We hope to expand it to other districts of Assam.
